THE DENVER EXPOSITION.

From a letter lately received by E. T. George, Nevada's Commissioner last year, from F. H. Wilson, Esq., Assistant Secretary of the National Mining and Industrial Exposition, to be held at Denver, Colorado, during the months of July, August and September, 1883, we clip the following: "Amid all the enthusiasm awakened by the announcement of the second Exposition to be held in Denver in 1883, no word of encouragement, no work of preparation comes from Nevada. Can it be possible that her citizens are unappreciative, and that the good accomplished last year and the recommendations of ex-Governor Kinkead fall on heedless ears? It is scarcely to be hoped that the grandeur of the exhibition made by New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado and Utah will pale before the collection of Nevada's mineral exhibit this year. I would not like to answer the visitors attending the session of the Grand Army of the Republic, the companions of the General Grand Chapter of Masons and the Sir Knights that will visit the Exposition coming from the Eastern States, that Nevada, the queen of silver producing American States was conspicuous by her absence. My letters to Governor Adams fail to produce a reply, and I am anxious for information, that something is being done to represent your State this year."

An Important Ruling.

The Secretary of the Interior has addressed an important letter to the Commissioner of the General Land Office in regard to the occupation of tracts of public lands by stockmen. It says: "I need not advise you that inclosures of the character described are unauthorized and illegal, so that the settlement is a trespass only, and gives no right to the occupant, or that such occupation does not legally exclude bona fide settlement by another. Such trespass on the public lands is equally as offensive to law and morals as if upon private property, and such lands not legally appropriated are vacant and subject to disposal by whomsoever legally applies for them. Until settlement is made under the settlement laws there can be no objection to the grazing of cattle or the cutting of hay on government lands, provided that such unappropriated lands are left open to all alike. To allow a few wealthy stockmen to fence these lands, and thus practically withdraw them from the operation of the settlement laws, and deprive men of small means of the advantage of acquiring settlement, will not be allowed under any pretense whatever."

ALBION TROUBLES SETTLED.

The attaching creditors of the Albion all signed an agreement Tuesday, and by Friday the accounts will be adjusted, when the miners, laborers and mechanics will be paid off, and immediately afterwards work will be resumed in the mine, under the new management.

Miss Sanders, the daughter of the Senator from Nebraska, is said to be the prettiest young lady in Washington society. She has blue eyes, pure golden hair and an exquisite complexion, with a perfect Cupid's bow of a mouth and a countenance of the greatest sweetness and beauty. We have always had a profound admiration for the Senator, and don't mind her knowing it.

The Modoc and Lassen papers mention the presence of large numbers of young crickets in those counties. The weather was not cold enough this winter (at 20 degrees below zero) to destroy the eggs, hence the fields are in places swarming with the creatures. The farmers are, however, hopeful that they will yet be killed off before the warm season comes on.

This glorious rain is the greatest blessing of the year. Everybody is rejoicing over it, for it assures a season of prosperity to farmers, horticulturists and business men generally. The capitalists will the more readily loosen their purse-strings, and many enterprises that seemed about to languish will receive a new impetus. Everybody is happy again, says the Sacramento Bee.

San Francisco is soon to have another election. This time it is to determine whether or not the city shall issue bonds to the amount of $500,000, with which to tide over the present low state of her finance. The election will be held sometime next month.

Dr. Lewis, of the Warner observatory, has received from Paris 540 francs, the prize of the Paris Academy of Science, awarded to the astronomer who was the most distinguished during the year.

TUSCARORA MINES.

FAVORABLE REPORTS FROM ALL—NO IMPROVEMENTS IN SOME.

The work in all the Tuscarora mines has continued for the past week. In all, the running of drifts and crosscuts has been made with good progress, and everything connected with the work in the mines goes to show that the money being paid out is expended cautiously and judiciously, and good results may be expected from the expenditures. The Mining News says:

In the Navajo, the shaft cut a small seam of ore. On the 350 level the face of the drift south on east lateral vein is in vein matter yielding low assays, the width of which has not yet been determined. It presents an appearance both favorable and encouraging. The stopes are looking well at all points and yielding as usual. The ore milled during the past week gave an average battery assay of $235.62 per ton.

The vein of ore in Belle Isle has shown some improvement since last report, and it can be sold that from none of the mines does there come a discouraging or doubtful report. The work of prospecting the Independence is progressing rapidly, and while there has not been, as yet, any important developments made there, it would not be surprising to hear of one almost any day. Elsewhere under ground there is nothing specially new to note. Foul air was encountered in Elko Con., and work was stopped at an interesting point. By running from shaft No 1 and making connection (which is being done) the foul air will be drawn off and the mine given better ventilation.

HER FIRST RAILROAD RIDE.

The Experience of an Inexperienced Woman in Idaho.

(Wood River Times.)

A young lady well known on Wood River, who was born and raised in Idaho, and who had never seen a steamboat or railroad car, recently left for a trip South, and much interest was expressed here by her friends as to her first impressions of the outer world. She always evinced such an even demeanor that many friends believed she would pass for an old traveler; but a letter just received from her escort proves that a young lady, even one of Idaho's fairies, and one that can calmly regard the wild Indian on the warpath, is unequal to the occasion of calmly passing through the surprises of modern progress.

She became skittish at the approach of the evening express, with its great bull's-eye headlight, and actually pranced when the train neared the depot and blew a long, shrill whistle. Her friends could not quiet her or coax her, and finally, rather than be left, they blindfolded the young lady, and by main force landed her safely on the train. The letter remarks it was fortunate the windows were so small, as she frequently attempted to get out, and could not be convinced that the telegraph poles, the hills and houses were not all whirling past her as she sat in the car, and every time they crossed a bridge she shut her eyes, believing the cars were flying in the air across the rivers.

AUTOMATIC FREIGHT TRAIN BRAKES.

The Sacramento Bee says "the Central Pacific Railroad Company will shortly begin putting Westinghouse automatic brakes on all of its freight cars. The Westinghouse air brake now on passenger trains is used by the engineer applying the steam through rubber pipes. The automatic brake requires opposite action. It is kept off of the wheels by the constant pumping of the engine on which is placed a cylinder. The attachments are similar in general appearance to those of the air brake. Some Eastern roads use both the air and automatic brakes, the latter for grades. If a train breaks in two and breaks the pipes, the automatic brake on every car is thereby relieved and at once applied regardless of the engine, and the wheels cannot revolve. This, of course, will save many a freight train from being wrecked. All of the cars in use on the Central and Southern routes and branches will be supplied with the automatic brakes gradually as the cars can be spared from service. About 7,000 freight cars are to be thus provided though it may be a year or two before the work is completed. It will be necessary to put a cylinder on each engine intended to haul freight trains. Therefore nearly 100 engines will be supplied. The railroad people do not state what the cost will be, but a competent authority has estimated the probable cost of attachments to freight cars to be $250,000, regardless of the expense of repairing the engines. Apparatus for about sixty cars has arrived and the contractor is enroute from the East. These improvements are to be made in the railroad shops, but will not call for an increased force of men, at least at present."

Fears are entertained by some that in consequence of the early Spring that there will be a partial failure of crops this season throughout the mountain valleys.

George Conkling Discharged from Custody.

The anticipations of the JOURNAL have been realized, as the annexed dispatch from New York, dated the 27th, shows:

After hearing the arguments of counsel relative to the shooting of Havensick by Conkling, Police Justice Smith late this afternoon rendered a decision that there were reasonable grounds for defendant to apprehend grievous bodily harm at the hands of deceased, and discharged Conkling from custody. The announcement was received with tumultuous applause by the spectators. The testimony submitted to the Court was taken at the Coroner's inquest. The object of the examination was to determine whether Conkling should be held for the action of the Grand Jury or discharged. Mrs. Uhler entered the court-room accompanied by Counselor Howe. She wore a maroon-colored velvet dress, heavy seal skin cloak and a velvet turban. Her face was partly concealed by a thick veil. Conkling, dressed in a fashionable suit followed her within the railing facing the bench. Colonel King, of counsel for the prisoner, made a strong plea for the accused, bitterly denouncing Havensick for his betrayal of Mrs. Uhler, and claimed that there was no crime in Conkling's act. It was, he said, a case of justifiable homicide, if there ever was one, and he asked that the prisoner be discharged. At the close of his speech, which was quite lengthy, the examination of witnesses began. Mrs. Uhler sobbed convulsively while King was speaking.

"Pop."

The plot of "Pop," which Rice's Surprise Party presented last night, is so clearly defined that the hoarser carries away the impression that the piece was originally written as a melodrama, and has been reshaped slightly to resemble "Fun on the Bristol." But its story places it on a higher level than that amusing affair and commands for it an interest even outside of the introduced musical and comedy features. It is capably performed by a splendid company of which John A. Mackay and Kate Castleton are the ruling spirits, and kept the large audience in a constant state of demonstrative merriment.

CARSON SPIRITS.

A Communication from ex-Senator Nye.

The following is said to be a spiritual communication from the late James W. Nye, communicated through Alfred James, medium, at Carson a few evenings since:

GOOD DAY, SIR.—Mortal errors must be atoned for in the spirit. They entail misery but never damnation. The doctrine of eternal damnation is the magic wand waved by priests over the ignorant, and the intelligent mortal who believes in such foolishness deserves to suffer. When here in the mortal form I passed through a checkered career. From my boyhood days I had made up my mind to overcome opposing circumstances or die in the attempt. With my mind set firmly towards success—honest success if possible but success anyhow, I strove through life. I have found in spirit-life that honesty like any other quality that dwells in the human breast, if it fosters truth and progress, must of necessity act in accordance with the saying of St. Paul and be "All things to all men." If you wish to succeed politically, and become what they call a solid man, you must in the present state of society conform to popular prejudices. When you reach the highest point of your ambition, everything depends upon the benefit your actions have conferred on humanity. As a spirit, I am sorry to say the present state of affairs in the mortal life allows very little chance for the success of an honest man, and I deplore this sad condition of things; but it must remain so for a time in order that man through sufferings may become truly wise. When that day comes—the proper time—all things will be so adjusted both in spirit and on the mortal plane of life that all will work harmoniously together. But this time will never come until every human being respects the rights of all other human beings. The legislation that will bring this about will usher the dawn of universal happiness. I say to you, labor not so much for mortal success, but foster and encourage truth and honesty while here. You will then escape misery, regret, and what is worse, the moral taint that will attend your spirit for ages hereafter. Even when you become one of the purest and brightest spirits in the afterlife you will at times feel the deepest regrets for the wrongs you have done in your mortal state, and these regrets will be the thorns upon the rose of infinite happiness. Remember this and be wise in time is my advice. As for my mortal career, I care not to call it up, for I am struggling as a spirit to forget it. I was known when here as James W. Nye of Nevada. I died at White Plains New York.

PLAYING AN OFFICER.

How a Reno Constable Lost a Night's Sleep.

Constable Nash was formerly Sheriff of Humboldt county, and he and his old friends there always have lots of fun with each other. They have been at their old tricks, and although the JOURNAL discredits the annexed story, the "josh" is a clever one, and republished. It is from the Winnemucca Silver State of Monday:

Last week Deputy Sheriff Reid left for the State Prison at Carson, having in custody Mrs. Loveless, of Paradise, the female cow-boy, who had been sentenced to that institution. The evening of the day of his departure from here a dispatch signed, F. M. Fellows, who had been Deputy Sheriff under W. T. Burns, was sent to Constable Nash, at Reno, requesting him to keep "a sharp look out for a good-looking Dutchman and a red-headed widow, who had left here under suspicious circumstances." Reid and the widow arrived at Reno before Nash received the message and took quarters for the night at the Arcade Hotel, to await the departure of the Carson train, which leaves Reno in the morning. Nash obeyed the instructions of the telegram and remained at the depot all night, and searched every train that arrived for the "good-looking Dutchman and the widow." Next morning Nash, who formerly resided in this county and knew all the settlers, met Joseph German, who went down on the train with Reid, and showing him the dispatch, informed him that he had been up all night on the look out for the absconding couple. While they were talking, Reid and his prisoner passed down on the other side of the street to get on the train, and German seeing them said: "There they go." Nash recognized Reid, and taking in the situation at a glance, exclaimed, "Sold again, by Jupiter! I've been a total 'abstainer' all my life, but blast my buttons if I don't think it's my treat. Let's go and have some soda water."

"Young Mrs. Winthrop."

The Madison Square Theater Company will be here Saturday evening in "Young Mrs. Winthrop." The Argument gives the play this strong recommendation:

"Young Mrs. Winthrop," like its predecessor, is a pretty play. Yet it is more—it is a strong play, which "Emmett" is not. It is a natural play, which "Hazel Kirk" is not. And it is, without a play with a moral. Altogether the play is, if not the best, one of the best American dramas we had for many a day. I am a tolerably good American, but I must confess that I have no liking for American wines and American plays. Both are, as rule, bad. That "Young Mrs. Winthrop" is an exception is cause for more than the author's gratification. It is noticeable that the audience on Monday night paid the play the compliment of listening to it with fixed attention.

This gives 4,840 square yards in one acre; 5 yards wide by 968 yards long is one acre; 10 yards wide by 483 yards long is one acre; 20 yards wide by 242 yards long is one acre; 40 yards wide by 121 yards long is one acre; 80 yards wide by 60½ yards long is one acre; 80 yards wide by 80½ yards long is one acre.

Consumption Cure.

DR. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir—Death was hourly expected by myself and friends. My physicians pronounced my disease consumption, and said I must die. I began taking your "Discovery" and "Pellets." I have used nine bottles and am wonderfully relieved. I am now able to ride out.

ELIZABETH THORNTON,
Montongo, Ark.

Heartily Recommended

Don't condemn a good thing because you have been deceived by worthless nostrums. Parker's Ginger Tonic has cured many in this section of nervous disorders, and we recommend it heartily to such sufferers.—News.
